WALKING AS JESUS WALKED
MAKING DISCIPLES THE WAY JESUS DID

DENNIS MOORE
WelcomE to the walking as jesus walked leaders guide!

The purpose of this guide is to help you and your group members experience life change through relationships. The leaders guide will be using a learning model called the Liquid Method.

What is the Liquid Method?
It is a learning model for small groups where discovery is the central means by which learning takes place. God’s Word is the source of truth and the Holy Spirit is the guide and revealer of all truth. This learning model creates a safe environment for real, life-changing discussion about God’s truth.

What are the advantages of the Liquid Method?
On the blog Small Group Connections with Andy Stallings, he lists several advantages for using this discovery learning model. The Liquid Method:

1. Values members because they are free to share their questions, concerns, struggles and real life challenges.
2. Provides biblical answers to real life issues in an encouraging, supportive environment of friends.
3. Provides feedback to group facilitators/disciplers from individuals—it makes knowing a person’s spiritual condition possible.
4. Fosters real spiritual growth through the application of God’s truth in one’s life.
5. Allows for non-threatening accountability for personal growth.
6. Connects members and newcomers in engaging conversations that provide instant friendships.
7. Allows people to interact with God’s Word themselves and not through a “teacher.”
8. Helps people see the relevance of Scripture in everyday life.
9. Provides group leaders with opportunities to listen to participants respond to God’s Word and shepherd and affirm them naturally.
10. Allows group members to interact and learn from each other.
11. Allows discussions to never get old because they’re centered on God’s Word. The discussions are always fresh as individuals and groups encounter Scripture at different places in life.
12. Is fun and creates an environment of laughter, safe and honest communication, and growing friendships.

How does the Liquid Method work?
Andy Stallings explains that the Liquid Method is four simple questions (Lean In, Look Down, Look Out, and Look In) that take participants through the process of observing, understanding, and applying God’s Word to life in a way that is both relational and relevant. For the Walking as Jesus Walked study, we have slightly modified this method by incorporating two action steps we call Look Up and Live it Out. These steps enhance the learning experience with praying together, sharing what you discovered with others, and putting what you learned into action.

Stallings explains the Liquid Method in this way, “At first glance, you may be tempted to think these questions are too shallow or that they don’t take you deep enough into Scripture. You might think “this is too repetitive,” but try it and stick with it. Once you grasp the strategy behind the questions, you’ll find that they offer a very different kind of experience. As participants respond to the questions, God’s Word begins to open up and the Holy Spirit uses the collective knowledge of the group to help everyone in the group learn. It’s that simple—it’s not limited to a single teacher, a single curriculum, or a single personality. Not only do group members learn what God says in His Word, but they also see firsthand what He does in the lives of His people.”

HOW DO THE FOUR QUESTIONS WORK?

Andy Stallings describes how each of these questions forms the foundation for this small group learning model:

1. Lean In

   The purpose of this question is to get everyone in your small group to “lean in” and get involved. It’s easy to answer and fun. It creates a sense of energy—so much so that group members physically lean in as they engage the discussion. The “lean in” question also frequently provides an emotional link to the “Look In” question. It also provides safety for answering the question and sets the tone for the rest of the study.

2. Look Down

   This is an observation question. It’s designed to help group members “look down” and see all the relevant details and facts in the Bible passage being studied. This question establishes a solid foundation for the rest of the study. Regardless of how much time someone has spent studying God’s Word, everyone in the group can get involved simply by taking an observant look at what the Bible says. This question is answerable by anyone solely based on their observation of the passage without requiring any prior knowledge or reference to other related texts. No Bible college degree is required.

3. Look Out

   This question helps group members “look out” and see the principles of the Bible passage through the lens of the world today. The answers are not focused on your group members but on other people. This will lead to more authentic dialogue within the group. It builds a bridge between the facts of the passage and our understanding of it as it relates to our world and our culture. It also helps individuals see the effect and the result of those who pay attention to and those who ignore the importance of God’s Word in our culture.

4. Look In

   Here is where group members begin to personally “look in” and see what God might be nudging them to change in their lives. During this part of the study, group members begin to move from knowing to doing what God’s Word says. It’s about obedience. The goal of all Bible study is life transformation.

   NOTE: Small group leaders should write down responses of group members and ask them for permission to follow up with them in a week or so to see how they’re doing with their new commitment.

HOW DO THE TWO ACTION STEPS WORK?

5. Look Up

   The purpose of this action step is to get everyone in your small group to “look up” to God and pray together. It is a time of praise and prayer for everyone. This is where group members transition from the “look in” question where God may have been nudging them to change something in their lives to humbly asking God to help them do so. The group leader’s role in this step is to give the Holy Spirit enough space to do His life-transforming work in the lives of the group members.

6. Live It Out

   The final step is to get everyone in your small group to “live it out.” That is to share what they discovered with others and to put it into action what they just learned. During this part of the study, group members are challenged to go out and share what they’ve just discovered about Jesus with at least two other people. Next, they are challenged to put God’s Word into action in a very practical way. Finally, the group members are given instructions on how to prepare for the next time together.

   As you lead your group through the “Walk as Jesus Walked” study, we trust that God will reveal Himself to you in very special ways.

Get started with fun, easy, and engaging questions (10 min.)

When we look back on our childhood, I think most everyone has at least one time where we tried to walk in someone else’s shoes. Maybe it was your mom or dad. Or, quite possibly it was a big brother or big sister. It might have even been someone you admired and wanted to be just like him or her.

Discuss: Who was that person? Why did you want to walk in his/her shoes?

Have different people look up John 13:14, 34, 14:12, 15:10; 1 John 2:6; 1 Peter 2:21 and read them aloud.

Discuss: What did Jesus intend for His disciples to do? What did John and Peter expect of those people who were disciples of Jesus?

LOOK OUT
Connect the world of the Bible to our culture (10 min.)

In our culture, most Christians are more than willing to accept Jesus as the payment for their sins. However, there are fewer Christians who seem willing to make Jesus the pattern for their lives.

Discuss: What do you think prevents Christians from making the Incarnate Jesus the pattern for their lives?

Today, most Christians don’t have a problem with the idea that Jesus is God. They have problems with the idea that Jesus veiled His deity so that His humanity could be fully expressed. How often have you heard, “But of course Jesus could do that; He’s God”? Even during the early days of the Church, many people also had the same problem. Back then, there were people who also believed that Jesus was God, but since they believed that, they had trouble believing that Jesus was fully human.

When reading through Acts you won’t be able to miss the early church’s dependence on the Holy Spirit for many things. The Holy Spirit empowered Peter with words to say (Acts 4:8); He enabled believers to speak boldly in the name of Christ (Acts 4:31); He encouraged the church throughout Judea, Galilee and Samaria (Acts 9:31); He gave the church at Antioch specific instructions of what they were to do concerning Barnabas and Saul (Acts 13:2); and He warned Paul of impending trouble (Acts 20:23). The early church depended on the Holy Spirit for the continuation of Jesus’ mission.

Just as the early church depended on the Holy Spirit, you can’t miss its dependence on prayer. They all joined together in prayer when making major decisions (Acts 1:14, 24); when they faced persecution (Acts 4:18-31; 7:59); and when faced with imprisonment (Acts 12:5; 16:25). Furthermore, Jews and Gentiles alike prayed. Peter was on the rooftop praying (Acts 10:9) and Cornelius was praying simultaneously (Acts 10:30-31). The early church was undoubtedly a praying church.

I don’t know about you, but when I was growing up I had plenty of opportunities to demonstrate my obedience to my parents. One of the simple things my parents expected of me was to come immediately when they called my name. Unlike other neighbor children, I was not to ask what my parents wanted first—I was just expected to come running home immediately. Of course, there were times where it was harder to obey (like when I was playing a favorite game). However, my parents loved me and held me accountable to complete obedience. I learned that partial obedience was disobedience. I remember hearing from my parents, “Don’t tell me you love me. Show me.” What they taught me is that obedience is the truest measure of love. I am forever grateful for their training in obedience.

Discuss: Share a time when obeying your parents was difficult for you, but you obeyed anyway.

Throughout the Old Testament, we have several examples of half-hearted obedience. Partial obedience is disobedience. There is probably no example so graphic, in both seriousness and consequences, as what we see in the account of Saul in 1 Samuel 15 (God rejected Saul as Israel’s king because of Saul’s disobedience). However, as Jesus is described in Philippians 2, we see a glimpse of perfect obedience. The extent to which Jesus obeyed was complete in every way. Jesus’ life of humility and obedience is the pattern for the way we are intended to live. This is what it means to be fully human.

Discuss: Do you think that most Christians you know believe that Jesus expects them to trust and obey all of His commands? Why or why not?

His ministry to others came from a healthy sense of obedience to His Father’s kingdom agenda. His obedience involved suffering, sacrifice and servanthood. What do the verses we just read tell us about this reality of Jesus’ obedience?

GPS coordinates are incredibly important in everyday life but few people know exactly what they stand for and how they work. GPS stands for Global Positioning System and it is a series of U.S.-based global navigation satellites situated in space. By using signals provided from these satellites, users are able to determine reliable positioning, navigation and timing data at all times of the day. A wide variety of devices—including mobile phones, in-car navigation systems and GPS locaters—decode GPS coordinates for us in terms we can understand. Most of us are probably most familiar with the usage of GPS in our vehicles. There are many funny GPS stories on the internet. Maybe even you have one?

Discuss:
Share an experience (good, bad, or funny) you have had in using a GPS unit.

Just as a GPS unit uses three coordinates to guide someone in finding a specific location, Jesus depended on the Holy Spirit, the Word of God, and prayer to see and interpret reality in a perfect way.

Have different people look up these Scripture passages and read them aloud: John 7:16-18; John 8:25-29; John 12:47-50; John 14:23-26; John 15:5-8, 15-16; John 17:6-9.

Discuss: Jesus’ obedience to God’s Word gave Him the ability to see and interpret reality with such clarity that He was able to understand His Father’s plan and carry it out. God’s Word is the truth. Jesus’ reality was rooted in the truth. He even stated that He is the Truth (John 14:6). In that way, Truth is a person. What do these verses just read aloud tell us about Jesus’ attitude toward God’s written Word?

Albert M. Wells Jr. stated, “The man who doesn’t read his Bible has no advantage over the man who has no Bible.” Do you think most Christians you know are more like the Jewish youths who learned the Hebrew Scriptures or the man who doesn’t read his Bible? Why or why not?

Jesus, in His full humanity, was dependent upon His Father to teach and guide Him in His next steps in carrying out the Father’s plan.

As Christ followers we have to ask ourselves these questions: Does the pattern of my life exalt the Lord in all things or does it emphasize performance for God? Does my teaching exalt the Lord and focus upon who God is and what He has done for me or am I centered on myself? The pattern that Jesus modeled for us is one of true, biblical worship. His pattern produces genuine peace that passes all understanding. Life is not about us and what we’re doing for God, but rather it’s about exalting what the Lord has done for us.

Read and Share: Beginning in Ephesians 1, read aloud through Chapter 3 (or as far as you can in the time allowed). As this passage is being read aloud, pause when you come across something that the Lord has done for us. (Remember: In Days #3 and #4 you were asked to go through Ephesians 1-3 and list all the things that God has done for us.)

LOOK OUT

Connect the world of the Bible to our culture (10 min.)

What we do comes from a proper concept of God’s character—who He is and what He’s done for us. This can be seen throughout the Scriptures. Prior to God giving Moses the Ten Commandments in Exodus 20, the Scriptures emphasize who God is and what He had done for His people. Later, the Prophet Isaiah said, “Here am I. Send me!” (Isa. 6:8). His response came from his knowledge of who God was when Isaiah “…saw the Lord” (Isa. 6:1). The Apostle Paul also laid a solid foundation of God’s character in Romans 1-12 before he urges total commitment “in view of God’s mercy” from the brethren in Rome (Rom. 12:1-2). Paul also listed over thirty gifts that God has given us in Christ in the first three chapters of Ephesians before he shifted the emphasis to what he says in Eph. 4:1: “As a prisoner for the Lord, then I urge you to live a life worthy of the calling you have received.” Jesus also knew that it was critical for His disciples to be “rooted and built up in Him” if they were to “overflow in thankfulness” for Him (Col. 2:7).

Discuss: In light of having a proper concept of God’s character, what happens in the lives of Christians who fail to acknowledge God as the source of everything?

Who am I?: Use famous friendships to match couples in your small group. You can use the list of famous friendships in the list below. While this list is certainly not complete, it’s a start. If you have some famous friendships that are better known by your group, use those instead.

Directions: As people arrive, stick a name tag or sticker with a famous name on each person’s back. Don’t tell them that these are pairs of friends. Their task is to mingle around asking “yes” or “no” questions to discover what character is written on their name tag. After a brief time of mingling, have each person find his or her “friend” and share a quality they look for in a friend. (The Three Stooges are included in case you have an odd number of people.)

Jesus is described as one who came “full of grace and truth” (John 1:14). His actions even demonstrated that grace and truth flowed from the fullness of His humanity (Luke 4:14-24). Jesus made it a priority to spend time with His disciples (John 3:22) for the purpose of developing friendships with them. In Day #4 you learned about the progression in the disciples’ relationship with Him. Not only did Jesus grow in His relationships with the disciples, but the Scriptures also record that Jesus was called a friend of sinners (Matthew 9:10-13, 11:18-19; Luke 15:1-2).

To walk as Jesus walked in intentional relationships demands that our relationships are saturated with Christ’s love. Anything less than intentional, loving relationships misses the whole point of Walking as Jesus Walked. First Corinthians 13 describes godly love—Christ’s love in action.

Read aloud: 1 Cor. 13:4-7.

Discuss: Since this passage describes Jesus’ walk, what do these verses tell us about what Jesus’ love was and was not? If possible, think of a time in Jesus’ life when He demonstrated each of these truths with His disciples.

LOOK OUT
Connect the world of the Bible to our culture (20 min.)

Not only did Jesus intentionally become a “friend of sinners,” but we see how He moved those relationships forward in very practical ways. His missions trip to Samaria (John 4) was just one example of the extent of Jesus’ love for sinners. On this trip, Jesus demonstrated a process we like to call Eternal CPR. This process uses familiar agricultural metaphors that are seen in John 4:4-42. As you learned in Day #5, Eternal CPR is the cultivating, planting and reaping of a relationship moving toward Christ. (Refresh your memory about Eternal CPR by re-reading the third paragraph on p. 104.)

Eternal CPR is a reproducible process—one that helps us develop intentional loving relationships as Jesus did. Cultivating helps you become a friend of sinners. Planting is when you place the seeds of truth into your friendships at the right time and in the right way. Reaping is clearly and concisely presenting the good news of salvation to your friends and calling for a response.

Read & Discuss: Since Eternal CPR helps us walk as Jesus walked, we need to gain a better understanding of how this process works. Read aloud Isaiah 28:23-29. What verses describe the cultivating process? The planting process? The reaping process? What can we learn here that will help us in intentionally loving those people God brings across our paths?

In recent years, many of the comic book superheroes have been made into big budget Hollywood movies: Batman, Iron Man, Spiderman, Superman, The Fantastic Four, The Hulk, and many others. People of all ages know and love their favorite superhero. Many of us even wish we could trade places with our favorite superhero even if it was only for a day. What kind of super powers do you want? Do you want to scale tall buildings on a single bound? Do you want to fly like a bird or would you rather swing from building to building? We all seem to dream about overcoming our human limitations.

Directions: Have your group members share their answers to as many of these questions as time allows. You may want to pick two of these to get started.

Share: If you could be any superhero, who would it be? Explain why. If you could have one super power, what would it be? What would be the first thing you would do with your new super power? How would you use your new power for good?

After Jesus concluded the first eighteen months of His ministry, He made an intentional shift of emphasis from the masses to the “few.” Jesus singled out four men—Simon Peter, Andrew, James, and John—and challenged them to a deeper level of involvement with Himself. For the remainder of His ministry, He chose to prioritize His time with a few men. Let’s take a look at what Christ did with these four disciples. Read aloud: Mark 1:21-38.

Discuss: Since this passage describes Jesus’ priority of “investing in a few,” what do these verses tell us about where you find Jesus and what He is doing with His disciples? What was Jesus modeling for the “few” in this passage?

Unlike John the Baptist, Jesus didn’t wait for people to come to him at some chosen site. According to the traditions of his day, potential disciples selected a rabbi to learn from and become like. However, Jesus took the initiative by selecting His own disciples (Mark 1:16-20). Walking as Jesus Walked can be very practical when we understand that our greatest impact in life will not be made among the masses, but rather in the few people we pour our lives into. Investing in a few can liberate us from the tyranny of trying to please everyone. Jesus understood this priority very well.

Discuss: Today, most Christians have difficulty grasping this priority of “investing in a few.” What keeps most people from going deeper with just “the few”?

In Day #3 you read Mark 7:17-18 and saw how Jesus cared enough to confront His disciples by getting alone with them. Read aloud Proverbs 9:7-12. Share a time when someone cared enough to confront you. How did you respond?

Read aloud The Parable of the Talents in Matthew 25:14–30 and The Parable of the Sower in Matthew 13:1–9. What does Jesus tell us about the principle of multiplication in this passage?

LOOK OUT
Connect the world of the Bible to our culture (20 min.)

This week we looked at what Jesus said about bearing much fruit. People in His day were very familiar with vineyards and what it took to bear much fruit. However, that is not the case today. The explosive multiplication in the number of disciples after Pentecost seems evidence enough that Jesus’ disciples reached the much fruit stage.

Discuss: In Day 4, we learned that fewer than three percent of Christians ever feel they arrive at the much fruit stage. Why do you think this is? What is God’s stated desire for each of us (see John 15:8)?
